

Questions for Reflection and Discussion

Luke 10:25-37

Is The Unborn My Neighbor?

Digging In

1. Read Luke 10:25-37.
2. Mike stated, “We’re more than our parts or functions. We’re not ‘human doings, we’re human beings.’” What did he mean by this? Why is this distinction important in the abortion debate?
3. Why does the Christian view of human life provide the “Only unshakable foundation for human equality”?
4. What are the only 4 differences between the adult you are today and the embryo that you once were? What’s wrong with appealing to these to justify abortion?
5. How would you respond to someone who claimed that the Bible is silent on the subject of abortion?
6. Why do you think so many Christians and churches are reluctant to speak up for the preborn?
7. How does the church’s silence sentence those who’ve been hurt by abortion to suffer alone?
8. In what way is responding to abortion a “gospel issue”?
9. Do you think it was a stretch for Mike to apply Jesus’ Parable of The Good Samaritan to the battle for life in our land? Why or why not?

Getting Personal

- Not everyone is called to full-time pro-life ministry. But what are some ways you might have impact for life in your circle of influence? What might God be calling you to do?
- This next week, make a special point of praying for moms in our community who may be facing abortion decisions. Pray also for the church in America to find her voice for the voiceless.

Questions for Reflection and Discussion

Luke 10:25-37

Is The Unborn My Neighbor?

Digging In

1. Read Luke 10:25-37.
2. Mike stated, “We’re more than our parts or functions. We’re not ‘human doings, we’re human beings.’” What did he mean by this? Why is this distinction important in the abortion debate?
3. Why does the Christian view of human life provide the “Only unshakable foundation for human equality”?
4. What are the only 4 differences between the adult you are today and the embryo that you once were? What’s wrong with appealing to these to justify abortion?
5. How would you respond to someone who claimed that the Bible is silent on the subject of abortion?
6. Why do you think so many Christians and churches are reluctant to speak up for the preborn?
7. How does the church’s silence sentence those who’ve been hurt by abortion to suffer alone?
8. In what way is responding to abortion a “gospel issue”?
9. Do you think it was a stretch for Mike to apply Jesus’ Parable of The Good Samaritan to the battle for life in our land? Why or why not?

Getting Personal

- Not everyone is called to full-time pro-life ministry. But what are some ways you might have impact for life in your circle of influence? What might God be calling you to do?
- This next week, make a special point of praying for moms in our community who may be facing abortion decisions. Pray also for the church in America to find her voice for the voiceless.